HOW STUFF WORKS

How to stay safe from wireless network hackers

By Marshall Brain

HowStuffWorks.com

There was an arrest reported last week that should send shivers down the spine of anyone who has installed a wireless router, also known as a wi-fi router.

In case you don't know what a wireless router is, it is a small box that you buy for your house or apartment. It allows your laptop, iPad and other wireless devices to connect to the Internet. Tens of millions of people in the United States have installed wireless routers because they make it so easy to connect to the Internet.

It turns out that if you install a wireless router, and if you leave it in its default settings and you turn it on, you have opened yourself up to a major vulnerability.

Your new wireless router creates a wide open wi-fi hotspot with a diameter of several hundred feet. Because you have used the default settings, which means that you have set no password to prevent people from connecting, anyone nearby can now connect to your hotspot.

It could be a neighbor, the guest of a neighbor, or someone parked on a nearby street. Because you have no password on your router, anyone nearby can connect to your router in just a few seconds. When they con-

If you are not a technology-minded person, this fiddling may be uncomfortable, and you may want to enlist the help of a friend who is technology-minded, or hire someone to configure things.

The basic idea is that your wi-fi router has a way to manipulate its settings. You need to log into the router and, at the very least, set up a password.

How do you "log into the router"? The owner's manual for the router will contain instructions. If you cannot find the manual that came with the router, you can find it on the Internet by typing the model number into a search engine. Some routers even come with a CD that will help you through these steps.

So log into your router, find the wireless settings and create something called a WPA password for your router. This is one of those things that takes 30 seconds if you know what you are doing.

As soon as you set that password, you have eliminated the threat of accidental arrest for child porn. Of course, you have also just disconnected all of your own devices as well. So now you need to go to your laptop, your iPad, etc. and type in the password there as well. They will then be able to reconnect to the Internet and check e-akers — but in the end, I just seven. The number of new cases has exploded across the state — 550 in the past five years — the state has dropped inspections by 33 percent, allowing some of the facilities to stay open. Although the state has the authority to impose fines on those that break the law, the fines are routinely delayed or dropped altogether. The state's lack of enforcement has prompted other health agencies to cut off funding and in some cases re-sent clients to live in an HCA won't close.

, but we understand about basic mechanism effective treatment, as Dr. Cohen said.

At the center will be conducting different studies on chronic itch in mice, to determine what the itch signals traveling through the skin to block drugs to block the signals.

Doctors also plan to collect skin samples and genetic data from patients to create a database that will be a resource for researchers to study susceptibilities.

Dermatology Dr. Cohen will direct the studies at the center. Hopefully, within a year, we plan to study a subset of these patients to prompt treatment of these patients systematically.

turn it on, you have opened yourself up to a major vulnerability.

Your new wireless router creates a wide open wi-fi hotspot with a diameter of several hundred feet. Because you have used the default settings, which means that you have set no password to prevent people from connecting, anyone nearby can now connect to your hotspot.

It could be a neighbor, the guest of a neighbor, or someone parked on a nearby street. Because you have no password on your router, anyone nearby can connect to your router in just a few seconds. When they connect, you will not know it is happening. And you may not ever care. If they read a few web pages or check their email, the tiny bit of bandwidth they use would be imperceptible.

But if they start watching a streaming video, you may notice that your connection has gotten really sluggish, and you may have no idea why.

The bigger problem, however, is child porn. If the person connected to your hotspot downloads child pornography or any other illegal material, federal agents are going to trace the illegal activity to your wireless router. Then they are going to come after you.

Once they find you, the attitude will be to arrest now and ask questions later. Meanwhile, the person who did the downloading is invisible. It might take days or weeks for your innocence to be confirmed. And the amazing thing is that you will have had no idea it was happening.

So what can you do to prevent this scenario from unfolding? There are actually three different things you can do, all of which require a little bit of fiddling.

So log into your router, find the wireless settings and create something called a WPA password for your router. This is one of those things that takes 30 seconds if you know what you are doing.

As soon as you set that password, you have eliminated the threat of accidental arrest for child porn. Of course, you have also just disconnected all of your own devices as well. So now you need to go to your laptop, your iPad, etc. and type in the password there as well. They will then be able to reconnect to the Internet, and chances are you will never have to think about it again.

If you want to be even more secure, there are two other things you can do. The first thing is to turn off something called SSID broadcasting. This is a feature that makes your network visible to anyone who is nearby.

Once you turn SSID broadcasting off, you can connect because you know the SSID, but other people will not see your network. The other thing you can do is to turn on MAC address screening. You can enter the MAC addresses of each device you want to connect to your network. Anyone with an unknown MAC address will be denied access, even if they guess the password.

While you are in there making these changes, make sure your router does not create and enable a separate "guest network." If it does, disable it or set a password on this second hotspot as well.

...to help people complete training that will lead to better jobs and more money. The schools signed agreements earlier this year to produce 16,000 graduates with certificates or associate degrees statewide by the year 2015.

The Herald-Dispatch says that the motivation is that graduates improve their skills and help the state become more competitive.

West Virginia boasts that degree-holders in the state are a full 10 percent better educated than the national average of 37 percent.

According to federal data, there's a gap between the readiness and job requirements in middle-skills labor markets in career fields such as manufacturing, allied health, technology, allied health-care workers, dental assistants to dental hygienists, and other support assistants.

Killed A Bear

On Tuesday, Austin and Oscar Sharp were down on Anthony's Creek to chase an old sheep killing bear. They had him up and going. Then the big storm put an end to proceedings.

On Wednesday, there came a call from the Swickers on Point Mountain, in Valley Fork of Elk. A bear had made raids on their sheep, and was probably still in the neighborhood. Oscar Sharp took his young cousin Joe Sharp, and responded to the call. After a two hour chase and running fight, the bear was put up a tree on the Gauley Mountain, down close to Elk River near the mouth of Dry Branch. This was a male bear, lumped off at 300 pounds. His age was estimated at four years.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Barnes during the weekend were: Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Thacker and children, Cheryl Kee and Sandra, of Dundalk, Maryland; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Burns, of Hot Springs, Virginia; Frank R. Brown, of Southern Pines, North Carolina; C. M. Cloudside Seat at Bear Hunt

During fire seasons, spring and fall, Neighbor Will Crigger sits in the lookout tower on White Rock, high on the Beaver Lick. There are lots of things to see and sometimes there are things to be heard too. The other Thursday morning, Mr. Crigger was sitting in his tower, after checking the temperature thermometer, the barometer, the humidity guage, the direction and velocity of wind, and other little items he must make note down. Then out of the stillness of the valley, better than fifteen hundred feet below him, came the lone bugle of a hound just laid on a trail. Then came the deep mellow voice of a second hound, and yet another, with the whoop of a hunter to thuse his dogs along. Bear, says Bill to himself, as he fixed his windows to miss none of the thrilling music coming up to his cloudside seat. In a minute, the hounds had the trail straightened out and were coming round the mountain in full voice. Then there were hound sounds good and plenty; seemed like dogs had been poured on the trail out of a tank.

Then three old trailers spoke their piece, a broad cast back the bear had been jumped out of his bed; all was coming slong well and just hold steady. Then the whole bushel of reserve dogs got a good soak of bear smell, and they did go wild—the air actually quivered with their ranting and raving and wailing.

In a couple of miles or so, the dogs overtook the bear; there was a fuss and a fight. The baying of the dogs was broadcast that the bear was treed. What those reserve dogs said to the bear is not fit to print here.

In a few minutes the quote of a gun came to Mr. Crigger, and a fight and a chase was on again. Soon the dogs bayed again, and again the quote of a gun. This time it was for keeps.

Mr. Crigger had read the sign aright. When he came down to the settlement, he was told a big bear had killed and eaten one of three ewes at the home of Ernest Ramsey. The Sharp twins, Austin and Oscar had been sent for; they came with three veteran bear dogs and six pups. It was a short chase. The bear was a big one. There is another bear in the community.

Last Friday, Mr. Sharp brought all his sheep into the barn yard, to be panned for shearing on Saturday. Out in a pasture field in plain view, came a large catlike varment. It was apparently following up the sheep.

At first Mr. Sharp thought it a wild cat, but it was most too large; the size of a big dog. Then too, it had a large long tail which hung down toward the ground and turned up at the end. In color, it was a dirty brindle, between the bay coat of a wild cat and the gray of a fox. It had a decidedly cat like head and a cat like walk.

While it might so happen, the varment was a wolf but from Mr. Sharp's accurate description, I put it down as a panther.

Austin and Oscar Sharp were up Greenbank way with their bear fighting dogs, so Elmer had only a couple of fox hounds to lay on the trail. One good dog flickered, and the other was only half hearted in the matter. She showed and expressed no desire to catch up with the varment.

Arthur Wanless keeps the lookout tower on Paddys Knob, during the spring and fall forest fire seasons. This spring he was kept company watching a mother ground hog and her little ones. When the little pigs were the right size, Mr. Wanless figured he would get between them and their hole, to pick one up to take home for a pet. The other day just before he was to take his summer leave, he heard a fussing and fighting racket in a clump of brush and briers. Hurrying up, he got there just in time to see a big male ground hog kill the last of the four little ones. Each was bitten through the head. Everybody knows a tom cat will kill kittens, but this is the first evidence coming to my attention that a male ground hog will do away with little ones.

He came west with a group of relatives and friends in April of 1903, and on June 16th of the same year was married to Miss Estella Blanche Overholt, of Farmington, Washington. To this union was born one daughter, Mrs. Dean M. Johnson, of Farmington.

Mr. Barlow engaged in farming for a number of years after marriage and later became Water Superintendent of this city. He was Chief of Police for twenty years, and an employee of the Washington Water Power Company for twenty-eight years.

He was a member of the Methodist Church, the Farmington Lodge 37 F. & A. M. for the past thirty-four years, and a member of the Eastern Star.

He leaves his wife, one daughter, two brothers, P. A. Barlow, of Vancouver, B. C.; N. C. Manuel T. Rimmer of Charleston, a recent graduate in pharmacy at the University has a position with the Royal Drug Stores.

The West Virginia Pharmacist says Mr. Rimmer was awarded the Lehn and Fink gold medal for the year 1949. This medal is awarded to the graduate of the College of Pharmacy, West Virginia University, who maintains the highest scholastic average for the four year's enrolled in college.

Before going to college Mr. Rimmer was in the armed service. Last year he was president of the student branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association.

From the same paper I get the news that Don Mason, of Marlinton, a recent graduate of the College of Pharmacy, has accepted a position with the Patterson Drug Store in Charleston.

Airplane Accident

Belmont Evans, aged 46 years, and Paul H. Duffy, aged 38 years, both of Richwood, were instantly killed late Sunday afternoon, June 12, 1949, when their airplane fell into the rocky bed of Greenbrier River at the mouth of Stony Creek.

The plane, a former Army trainer, had shortly before taken off from the near at hand Marlinton airport.

Both men were pinned in the wreckage.

Investigation by inspectors of the Civil Aeronautic Authority found the plane in perfect working condition, the cause of the accident being some error on the part of the pilot of the plane.

Duffy was a former Navy air mechanic. He owned the plane. He worked in the machine shop of Crichton Coal Company of Richwood.

Evans was a licensed pilot. He operated a pool room in Richwood.

THAT DAD OF MINE

He's "slowing" down as some folks say,

With the burden of years from day to day;

His brow bears many a furrowed line;

He's growing old, that Dad of mine.

His shoulders droop and his step is slow

And his hair is white—as white as snow,

But his kind eyes sparkle with friendly light,

And his smile is warm and his heart is right.

He's old? Oh, yes! but only in years.

For his spirit soars as the sunset nears

And blest I've been, and wealth
I've had,

In knowing a man like my old Dad.

tradition too, that the name was transplanted here from Greenbank in old England, by the ancient English family of Nottingham.
They settled here prior to the Revolution and here they remain in number and influence to this

Talking about English place names, on the Greenbank plain is Saulsbury Run. Could the old pioneers from England have been reminded of Saulsbury Plain,
where real estate interests of seven centuries since forced King
John to sign the Great Charter?

This I do know that when the time came better than a century ago for to establish a post office at Greenbank, the to be post master was pressed for a name in a hurry. He lookd out on the white pine slopes surroundings and said the post office should perpetuate the old community

so. First Postmaster Wooddell,

Vain pursuit was made and the neighbors hastened to the fort of Dunmore. The fort was attacked and a man named Sloan was killed. An Indian was wounded. He was taken to a glade near Arbovale, where he was kept by a fellow warrior until he died. Hence the name Hospital Run. The tradition is that when the settlers discovered the camping place, there was much chewed up sassafras bark scattered around. This had been used as a dressing on the gun shot wound.

The tradition of the last Indian invasion was a friendly one of about three hundred strong, with numerous horses and dogs. This was about the year 1810. The community awoke one morning to find the big camp in their midst. I have always thought of these Indians as the Mingo tribe paying a farewell visit to their old hunting grounds. That was about the year they moved from Mingo Bottom near Wheeling to the head of the Muskingum River in Ohio, on a trade with the government.

In this connection let it be said that along about the year 1838, a like number of Indians, horses and dogs came to the Williams
River Deadwater for a bear hunt.

I have intended for years to write to them to see if there is any tribal tradition of farewell trips to their old range prior to migrations further west.

It may be of interest to note that the Mingo Indians, numbering about three hundred souls moved from Mingo Flats, now Randolph County, West Virginia, "at the head of the Ohio," about the year 1756. They went to Mingo Bottom, on the Ohio, near Wheeling.

The old settlers refuge of the Greenbank community back in Indian times was Warwick's fort at the Forks of Deer Creek. The stockade was acres in extent.
Here the people gathered when Indians raided, and brought in their stock as well.

about one fourth of a mile.

The family name of Slaven brings to mind the late Colonel Jacob Gillispie Slaven. He was the friend of the late Senator Henry Clay, of Kentucky. The later for years maintained a deer hunting camp on the Slaven plantation in the Narrows of the West Fork of the Greenbrier River, near the present site of the big Pocahontas Tannery. Governor
Joe Johnson and General Stonewall Jackson were also personal friends of the family.

This of course brings to mind
the celebrated old turnpike tay-ern, Travelers Repose. Among the noted visitors here was none other than Congressman Abraham Lincoln, later to be president of the United States.

I must not fail to mention the free and independent attitude of thought and action known to us all as the Greenbank spirit. It is well illustrated by this homely little tale. The beloved physician of the community had a hurry
call up Buffalo to see a sick citi-

paid. Later in the year, the good

Doctor bought a calf from the pa-

calf was to be brought to Greenbank at a later date, but no price was set. The day of delivery was hot, the road long and dusty, the calf was obstinate. It was no pleasure trip. The good physician was made a bit breathless by a charge of $5 for delivering the calf. In those times the average daily wage was around 50 cents.
However, there seemed to be both logic and humor in the assertion that it was no farther from Green bank to the top of Alleghany for the Doctor to ride up than it was from the top of the Mountain to Greenbank for a man to walk down.

Here the space is used up and the chapter is far from complete.
I was all set to moralize on how beautiful it all is for brethren to dwell together in unity in the bounds of a Lions or other civic club. I find I have rambled, and

Burns--Barlow

The Marlinton Methodist Church was the setting Sunday afternoon, December 21, 1958, for the wedding and reception of Miss Carolyn Margaret Barlow and Fred Campbell Burns, Jr.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Herbert Pennington, Jr., pastor of the Marlinton Methodist Church, and Rev. Eugene Pierce, pastor of the Marlinton Presbyterian Church. A musical program was presented by Mrs. Willard Eskridge, organist, John Sievertson, of Wheeling, who sang "I Love Thee" by Beethoven, and a duet, "O Perfect Love" by John Sievertson and Jon Young, of Marlinton. During the ceremony, Mrs. John Waggy, Jr., sang "The Wedding Benediction."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee S. Barlow, and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Burns, Sr., all of Marlinton.

The bride was wearing the wedding gown of her twin sister, Mrs. John J. Waggy, Jr., of Morgantown, of white satin, it is fashioned with

Hillsboro community, and particularly Oak Grove Presbyterian Church, suffered a distinct loss
when First Class Private Basil C.
Sharp, recently lost his life on the battle-field of western Germany.

In addition to his good work as teacher and athletic coach for five years in the Hillsboro High School, Mr. Sharp wielded an especially good influence in his religious activities. For several years he was Superintendent of the Caesar Mountain Out-post
Sunday School, and taught its Bible Class. During the same period he taught the Young People's Sunday School Class in Oak Grove Church, and was Adult Adviser in the Young People's work.
He also did good work as a member of the Oak Grove choir, and as a member of the Hillsboro Men's Chorus. In many other ways he was a loyal supporter of the Church and its causes. In church and community-wide activities he was always ready and willing to go wherever he could be of service. This spirit has no doubt been characteristic of his whole military service.

The nation has lost a good soldier, and the whole community will miss a true friend and worker.

FIELD NOTES

Olus Underwood; over on Beaver Creek, has made good time on the foxes. The last week or two he laid out seven head of greys. He uses just an ordinary farm run of dog, which has developed a taste for chasing foxes. Last Friday Mr. Underwood was out on the flats and ridges at the foot of the big Beaver Lick, not far from the home of William Crigger. He found the track of a big wild cat. Soon he came to the still warm body of a fawn, which the cat had killed and partly eaten. The dog gave the cat a chase for about fifteen minutes but lost it and came back.

Early in the winter my friend,
J. W. Carpenter, of Spruce Flat, let me know this would be a winter of deep snows and many of them. The exact number of snows for the winter is twenty-three;
the depth of each to vary with the elevation. Our first snow fell November 7th, so there will be a snow for every day between that day and the 30th of the month—23 in all.

A big doe deer kind of disrupt-

ghany Mountain in the Lury
Draft one day last week. Okey McClain was riding a horse and Harry was driving a team up a skidding road, when a big deer jumped out a nearby tree top and made off with a lot of speed and some noise through the woods.
The horses broke too. Okey went over backwards into the deep snow; Harry's team hung up on a tree, with a horse on either side.

Anyway, after one wheat harvest all the pigeons disappeared except one blue hen. Whether from shotguns or poison bait, I was never told; probably both. This hen was the lone pigeon for a few years.

Away back in President Harrison's administration we ran out of republicans to hold the postoffice. Sheriff Sam Gay, who was postmaster, had gotten sick with pneumonia the week the deep snow fell, December 16, 1890, and was never able for duty again. He was the community black smith, and made out very well with the postoffice and his trade; hunting and fishing. When he was no longer able to work as a smith, the postoffice was not worth while. Uncle Sam had his office and shop near the school house on Price Run, where Will Stewart now lives.

Then Rev. Madison Boggs, a colored man, moved in from Ohio. He made a good postmaster, but smith, the postoffice was not worth while. Uncle Sam had his office and shop near the school house on Price Run, where Will Stewart now lives.

Then Rev. Madison Boggs, a colored man, moved in from Ohio. He made a good postmaster, but the income from the office and toll collected from the bridge and road were not enough to keep his large and growing family. He got land up at Brownsburg, and then he could go out to work at his trade as a carpenter and his calling as a minister.

Then the community needed a postmaster, a toll collector and a blacksmith. Partisanship ran rampant back in those days so no one was allowed to qualify without being a truly loyal party man. Over the Alleghanies at Mt. Grove, Charles Zebulon Hevener, a mighty man and blacksmith, was not averse to moving over into West Virginia and professing republican politics. So he did move over to become sexton of the church, postmaster, toll collector and village blacksmith.

Among other things this useful and leading citizen brought with him was a pet male pigeon. This bird was snow white and saucy

The other day, Fred, Sharp got a big old dog red fox after a fine long chase on Buck's Mountain.
This fox had more white on him than any I have ever seen. Even his legs were white, and the red was all pretty pale. In the day's chase, Fred's dogs ran another red to hole. There is a plague of foxes this year.

When Fred goes fox chasing he wants to fox chase, and not wear his hounds out with too much cold trailing. So he keeps his dogs tied until he finds a track
he is willing to turn loose on.

In this neighborhood the range of the red fox is up on the high mountain, but of nights he comes down into the river flats to hunt rabbits and grouse. Going up the mountain Fred came upon the tracks of several foxes coming down to hunt the brush and laurel patches of the river ridge.
He gave these no mind; he was waiting for the trail of a fox coming back from his night's hunt.
Soon he found what he was looking for, and in just a few minutes he had one up and going.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Cochran received the following letter from their son, who is somewhere in Belgium. PFC. Harry R. Cochran:

Dear Mother and Dad:

I will take the pleasure in dropping you a few lines to let you know I am all okay and hope this finds you the same.

I have received the package you sent and certainly do thank you. I also received the one Mr. & Mrs. Orion Gum sent, and I only wish I could send all of you something nice, but anything that is worth sending is three times its actual value. The only thing we are short of is cigarettes, but maybe there will be plenty later.

I receive mail every day from Eunice, which keeps me company by reading. Tell all the children I said hello and to be mean as snakes, which I figure they are. Tell Louise and Alex I received their nice letter and will answer when I have a chance.

Well I must get some sleep, so answer real soon. Keep your chin up.

As ever, your son,
Harry.

Mrs. Kyle C. Dilley
the following clipping from her husband, PFC. Kyle C. Dilley, who is with the Eighth Infantry Division. Mrs. Dilley received a letter from her husband written on Xmas Day in a hospital somewhere in France.

ALL HANDS FORM CARRYING PARTY.

With the 8th Infantry Div., Germany:—For eight days, the officers and men of headquarters company carried in supplies on their backs under fire and carried out the wounded to keep the First Bn. of the 28th Inf. Reg. in the position they had been ordered to hold.

Although torn by constant counter-attacks, the companies clung to that key salient in the gloomy Hurtgen Forest. Supply and evacuation were the sorest problems. The one approach lay across an open draw, which was blasted night and day by enemy fire. Only men on foot could bridge that draw.

Every possible man in the C. P. was organized into a carrying party. Rations and water, ammunition and equipment were transported on vehicles to the rear C. P. There, the carrying party took over the supplies. The porters stumbled through the darkness to the edge of the draw. They slid down a long, almost vertical bank, crossed the shell-lit hill, and climbed up the other side. Coming back, they bore the litters of the wounded.

Everything the battalion received during those hectic days, was carried in by these parties, and every wounded man was evacuated.

The food they had was tasty especially the meat. attempt to tell you how it. They cut the meat about one pound pieces and each piece in banana leaf have a pit dug and a hard wood in it and lay the wood, then light. When it burns they red hot rocks. They rocks with banana leaf place the meat on then it with a burlap sack to heat in. It takes about to prepare a year old 250 pound hog. It is der. They prepare fire way only it does not Poi is their main dish something like hano

From the way you all must really be having a storm. Well we have here just as bad. I remember a few years ago it was so hard, and the town away? That is here. Maybe it takes 15 minutes to an hour to start again.

I finally got off the mill. I got on the mill. It took me a good while to make it. I like the lathe.

How are John? I am going along on the power to them. It is time for it. It is time for it will close. And

Mrs. A. B. Brooks of Baltimore sends in a letter she received from Merle McLaughlin of the Navy:

Will try and answer your letter and Christmas card; was glad to hear from you and to know all of you are well.

Sorry I didn't get to see you more when I was home last spring

I hope Andy and Moody got home for the deer season.

It seems funny Lyndel going to school, but maybe I have been been gone too long. It was 4 years December 11th, and I still have two more years on this enlistment. I made another rating but have to wait for it to go into effect. Then I will be first class machinist mate, by trade or a first class petty officer.

Tell everyone hello for me; will try and write you sooner from now on.

Your cousin, Merle.

The Little Wooden Cross

(Lovingly dedicated to the memory of Paul Conrad Friel, who gave his life for his country,
October 25, 1944. Composed by Mrs. Stella Orndorff Finch of Berea, Kentucky and sent to his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs.
M. C. Friel.)

In a land far away stands another cross today,
As emblem of suffering and fame
To mark the resting place of one Who gave his life in freedom's name.

Oh, that little wooden cross
How it fills my heart with shame
When I think of all he must have borne,
From his loved ones to be torn,
To save us all and what we hold so dear.

He gave his life for me,
Like The One of Gallilee
That all men everywhere Should share the sacred right of liberty.

Dear God, help me to cherish
That little wooden cross,
Help me to pray, to work, to give
The very best I have for those Who suffer all that I might live.

Last spring my friend S. S. Davidson left his farm on Back Alleghany to go to work in the Shuchard Candy factory, Lititz, Pennsylvania. Last week I got a box of mixed candy from him and a letter:

"I am sending you a box of mixed candy, made in the factory where I work. I am on the night shift and I work from 5 o'clock in the evening to six in the morning—thirteen hour day. During the summer, I planted an acre of ground by hand and worked it with a hoe. My other ground was all farmed by tractor. I had three acres of field corn. Fertilizer and seed cost $4.50; plowing discing and cultivating cost $50. I husked the corn and cribbed it all myself. The yield was 340 bushels. I did all this in day time after thirteen hours factory work at night. In addition I feed hogs and care for 200 hens. While I am 62 years old, it seems like I am still foolish about work.

"You will find in your candy box an almond bar of one ounce. The machine which makes these turns out 92,000 in an eight hour shift. Three men knock out the molds and set trays up. Each man handles one and a half tons of candy. You can figure out how many pieces.

"So far there has been very little snow here; maybe as much as three inches at one time. The coldest has been 4 to 6 above zero."

"Tell me that you were adopted." The older woman picked Loraine's hand. "Being a four-year-old certainly nothing to be ashamed of, my child. There's all the credit due you."

"But—but you wouldn't Rance to marry anyone without my background."

Mrs. Strickland smiled a wistful smile. "My dear, look! Haven't you guessed? Didn't I tell you that the reason I'm eager to have Rance marry me is because I was an adopted child myself. Loraine's mouth fell open. She tried to speak and couldn't. Just then Ted came from the kitchen carrying a bag. Impulsively he turned and flew to him. "Hurry!" she cried. "I'll be with you! Oh, for goodness' sake, move! Can't you see I'm in love all over again?"

Prohibition is coming back. In Massachusetts, Vermont, Maine, New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Ohio and Illinois, there are thousands of precincts, towns and townships under local option of prohibition. Arkansas has 39 whole counties, Alabama 48; North Carolina 40; Mississippi 53; Georgia 64, under prohibition, and you cannot buy a drop of legal beverage alcohol in them. How much better off our nation would be if alcohol drinks would be out-lawed. I hope the good people of West Virginia will have a chance to vote alcoholic beverages out of our State as well as our nation. it would save a lot of deaths, heart breaks and suffering. So let us get busy and do all we can to oust the liquor traffic from our State and Nation.

Lieutenant Harlen W. Kinnison.
Fort Knox, Kentucky.
November 8, 1957.

Dear Mr. Kinnison.

It is with pleasure that I inform you that your son has successfully completed the Armor
Officer Basic Course at the US
Army Armor School. Graduation from this difficult course of instruction is a noteworthy achievement. This accomplishment clearly demonstrates that your son has a sincere desire to learn all that is required of him, in order to qualify himself for his position of great responsibility as an officer in the United States Army.

The purpose of the Armor Officer Course is to provide newly commissioned officers with a basic military knowledge to include the fundamentals of military leadership, techniques pertaining to the Armor equipment they will be utilizing, and the organization of the units they may command.

I am certain that your son will continue to distinguish himself in his future assignments and will bring great credit upon himself,
his family, and his country.

Hively -- Mullens

Miss Dotty Lou Mullens, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mullens, of Marlinton, became the bride of Hunter A. Hively, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hively, of Dunmore, in a ceremony performed on Saturday, May 17th, 1958, in the Dunmore Presbyterian Church.

The double ring ceremony was read at 7:00 P. M. by the Rev. Jack D. Arbuckle, of Lewisburg, before an altar decorated with baskets of summer flowers.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Frank Johnson, of Marlinton.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length powder blue dress with blue and white accessories and a shoulder corsage of red rosebuds and lilies-of-the valley. She carried a white Bible, a gift from her parents.

Miss Dottie Bragg, maid-of-honor, wore a champagne street-length dress with beige accessories and a shoulder corsage of yellow rosebuds and snapdragons.

Julian Hively, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man.

The bride's mother wore a beige suit with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow rosebuds and pink snapdragons. Mrs. Hively, mother of the groom, was attired in a black suit with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow rosebuds and snapdragons.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the social room of the church. The bride's table was centered with a four-tiered cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, and surrounded by candles and flower decorations.

Mrs. Sylvia Johnson and Mrs. Alice Underwood, sisters of the bridegroom, were assisted at the refreshment table by Mrs. Kermit Wyatt and daughter, Judy.

When the couple left for a southern wedding trip the bride wore a white, linen dress and white accessories.

The couple will reside near Dunmore.

Baby Incubator

The Business and Professional Woman's Club of Marlinton have undertaken as their good and kind act of this season to buy and then raise the money to pay for a baby incubator, for the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital. It is here. When not in use, it will be on display in the window of the Royal Drug Store for the next few weeks. The cost is $635.

The baby incubator has proved efficient in saving babies who are born too soon. This one is the most modern of its kind, being the latest thing on the market. It replaces an old, outmoded one. Such an incubator as the ladies have provided is a necessity, as there is not one like it available in many miles.

One of the features is that oxygen treatment can be used not only with premature babies, but also with children up to about a year old suffering with pneumonia or other respiratory diseases. A baby can be cared for without being taken from the incubator, even to be weighed.

In sponsoring and providing the incubator the Professional and Business Woman's Club of Marlinton will receive donations in any amount. Send or bring your donations to Miss Mary Moore, president, or to the Royal Drug Store.

Captain James M. McNeill

CONFEDERATE STATES ARMY
From Richwood News-Leader

A name that sent tingles up the spines of Yankee Nicholas countians was a Confederate Chieftain by the name of Captain James M. McNeill, who was a builder and contractor from Pocahontas county, and who joined up with the Rebels when the war clouds of 87 years ago gathered over the nation.

For some time this newspaper has been trying to get the story of James McNeill, grandfather of the poetess Louise McNeill, but was unsuccessful in finding anybody who knew much about the man. Then we ran into one of Pocahontas County's best informed, but least known historians, a man named Dorsey Little of Marlinton. Mr. Little remembered something about Jimmy Reb, but didn't want to trust himself with the historical facts, so he did the best thing possible: He wrote a letter to Professor Douglas McNeill of the Davis and Elkins College faculty.

Professor McNeill is the only son of Captain McNeill of the Nicholas Company, 22nd Virginia who was captured at the battle of Droop Mountain and kept at Fort Delaware for a long tiresome period of time. Professor McNeill's report on his father follows, and all of it is a new and important contribution to the Civil War history of Nicholas county:

James Monroe McNeill was

Captain McNeill was a prisoner at Camp Chase, Ft. Delaware until the war. He collected and sold his lots in Sumner, chased a yoke of cattle on a narrow sled, loaded carpenter's tools, and went to Pocahontas over the Road. When home on his farm, he built a house after the Eagle Hotel at Womersville. Later, he married nie Perkins. born at Buckeye, on Swago Creek Pocahontas county, May 9 1823. Died on the old home farm, March 26, 1911.

His boyhood was spent on the farm. In the early 1840's he taught a term or two of the old time subscription school. About 1841, he married Sarah Jane Young, built a log house on his farm, and with his girl wife went about home-making. Very shortly his wife died. Whether it was to get away from the scene of his sorrow, or to adventure in Nicholas county, which was beginning to develop, no one knows. At any rate, he left his farm in charge of a brother and walked over the "Old Nicholas Road" to Summersville—this in the late 1840's.

From what my father has told me, I take it that most of his work in Nicholas was at Carpentry. He built a one-story Dutch type house in Summersville for the Eagle (or Eakle) family, he built a log church near what it now Craigsville; he built some houses for a "Mayor" Harris as the Richlands. He has told me of building a bridge across Muddlety. It seems that the sills of the bridge were logs and possibly thirty or forty feet long. A number of men were present, and they had to carry the logs to place with handspikes. A. M. McClung owned a giant slave who was supposedly the strongest man in Nicholas. McNeill weighed 220 and was something of a giant in his own right. With a man on either end of a dozen handspikes, the log was lifted and moved toward its place. McNeill and the Negro were pitted against each other. Thereupon the other men gradually eased a bit and left not admit it next morning, but he has told me that he could scarcely "get on his britches" next morning. It was, however, a consolation that the Negro was unable to report for further work on the bridge.

Personally, Captain McNeill was opposed to slavery and secession, but like Lee, Jackson, and many thousands of others, he felt that his allegiance was to Virginia, and when his state seceded, he went with it.

The young stock took an awful beating. We lost twelve yearling heifers, though they were put in a big quanset barn at night. A dozen deer died right at our pile of baled hay. Antelope and sheep were frozen to death, standing up. My daughter took a walk up above the ranch, and in a half mile she found twelve deer and ten antelope frozen to death, beside rabbits and sage chickens. On the highways you now meet big semitrailers loaded with dead bodies of cattle and sheep from the north going to rendering plants in Denver. The temperature was not so cold in Sweetwater Valley. We had ten below zero a few times, but the thermometer never went above thirty degrees for days and days.

Most of our yearling steers and heifers were on a ranch, which had good protection and this live stock is all right. We are indeed thankful we have come through with such small losses, so far. However, we do dread calving time, though we do have feeds.

CONFEDERATE STATES ARMY
From Richwood News-Leader

A name that sent tingles up the spines of Yankee Nicholas countians was a Confederate Chieftain by the name of Captain James M. McNeill, who was a builder and contractor from Pocahontas county, and who joined up with the Rebels when the war clouds of 87 years ago gathered over the nation.

For some time this newspaper has been trying to get the story of James McNeill, grandfather of the poetess Louise McNeill, but was unsuccessful in finding anybody who knew much about the man. Then we ran into one of Pocahontas County's best informed, but least known historians, a man named Dorsey Little of Marlinton. Mr. Little remembered something about Jimmy Reb, but didn't want to trust himself with the historical facts, so he did the best thing possible. He wrote a ley Bridge, Sewell, and Fayetteville. As a part of the 22nd Virginia Infantry under Colonel George S. Patton (grandfather of "Blood and Guts" Patton of World War II) it took part in the fight at White Sulphur, Lewisburg and Droop Mountain.

You mention in your letter that Captain McNeill was somewhat in command of the 22nd Regiment at Droop Mountain. This is not entirely accurate. Colonel Patton was actually, though not theoretically, in command of the Confederates at Droop. The active command of the 22nd developed upon Major Bailey. When Averel's flanking party made its surprise appearance at the west end of Droop, the 22nd was divided in an effort to meet the emergency. A few companies were directed by Captain Thompson. Major Bailey directed some, while Captain McNeill, with Company D and another company, was sent down Droop to oppose some regiments advancing straight up the mountain from Hillsboro. As history has recorded, the Confederates were all but surrounded, and it was by a narrow margin that Echol's entire army escaped destruction. Major Bailey was killed, Captain McNeill captured and Company D terribly mauled.

Captain McNeill was held prisoner at Camp Chase, Ohio, and Ft. Delaware until the close of the war. He collected some debts, sold his lots in Summersville, purchased a yoke of cattle, built a narrow sled, loaded his box of carpenter's tools, and drove back to Pocahontas over the Nicholas Road. When home on his old farm, he built a house modeled after the Eagle house at Summersville. Later, he married Fannie Perkins. To this union was born one child, a son, George Douglas, at present Professor of Economics and Political Science, Davis and Elkins College.

for a number of years.

He was kind and patient to all and even in his last days he bore his suffering patiently with the acknowledgement of his Master through prayer.

He bade no one a last farewell
He said good-bye to none.
His poor heart just ceased to beat.
And suddenly he was gone.
Only those who know the sorrow of parting, without one last good-bye.

Can know the pain and agony
That comes when our loved one dies.

Some may think the wound is healed.

But little they know what our hearts conceal,
But we know someday that we will meet.

Where parting will be no more.

The book is introduced by Dr. Arthur Wentworth Hewitt, a well known pastor, lecturer, and author of two books on rural churchmanship used in the required course of study for Methodist ministers, and he says "It is his conviction that 'no man has surpassed Henry Woods McLaughlin in his service to humanity through the rural church.'"

Dr. McLaughlin is a native of Pocahontas, the son of the late Andrew and Mary Price McLaughlin. He served as minister at Green Bank and Dunmore at one time and one of his sons, John C. B. McLaughlin, is also a Presbyterian minister, now at Keswick, Virginia, and he has served in Pocahontas County.

Ruff and Reddy are two young red foxes at the home of the James Parks at Watoga State Park. These foxes are about eight weeks old now; they are of a litter of seven and were caught by Forest Beard, of Hillsboro, and given to the Parks. They eat dog food, milk, and bones and sleep in the fireplace; they bark and fight like true brothers, particularly over food. The foxes have different personalities; one is friendly and likes to be handled while the other one would just as soon be left to its own pursuit.

For a change in the weather from rain last week, about four inches of snow fell on higher ground on Wednesday night, May 7. Fishermen at Spruce Lake reported snow falling and freezing the eyes on the fishing rods. Frost on Friday morning.

Well Deserved Honor

John A. Sydenstricker, of Marlinton, has been tagged for the honor of being listed in "Who's Who in America." This is an honor richly deserved. And I extend congratulations. This distinction only comes to about one person in fifteen or twenty thousand. Mr. Sydenstricker's is in the field of banking. For more years than I care to count he has served as cashier and then as Executive vice president of the First National Bank in Marlinton. Term after term he is elected to the Board of Directors of the Richmond Branch of the Federal Reserve Bank. The only wonder is that this listing in "Who's Who in America," had not come before. However, the important thing is that this high honor has come.

A Chain

Dreams, faith and works, a three-linked chain,

By which man climbed into the light,
Ever upward through all the years,
And still he climbs to reach new height,

Dreams of a neighbor on some star,
When ships can span the outer space,
Of hidden secrets brought to light,
When subs have swept Atlanta's Place.

Of planes that stand against the sky,
Watching the world in spinning flight,
Until it brings a station near,
Then dropping down, like speeding light.

Of deserts green with growing grain,
More than enough to feed all men
Of peace on earth, as it was once,
When angels sang at Bethlehem.

By dreams conceived and born of faith,
The workers at the forge of life,
Are welding chains for man to climb,
Until he stands in freedom's light.

Freedom from want, from war and fear,
From spirit crushed like trodden clod,
From tyrants' yoke of ignorance,
And freedom to commune with God.

Pocahontas County Industries

A large and representative congregation of business men of Pocahontas County met at the Court House last Thursday night.

The idea of the gathering was to put Pocahontas County in line with the organized and systematic State wide effort to attract industries to West Virginia. This movement is headed by Governor William C. Marland. The matter was presented to us by Attorney Arden J. Curry, late of the Attorney General's staff, and now executive assistant to the Governor.

Mr. Curry spoke in detail of the systematic effort now being made to attract new industries to West Virginia. He urged us to form an organization and do our part in the campaign to attract a new industry or industries to Pocahontas County from the long list, of prospects which have expressed interest in locating in West Virginia. This will require an investment of money.

Naturally, Mr. Curry's message met with hearty response. The matter was put on a business basis by naming a committee on ways and means.

The president, is Senator Fred Allen; vice president, Maynard Dilley; secretary-treasurer, Richard Currence. The other six members or directors are J. E. Buckley, Glenn Shrader, Judge S. H. Sharp, R. M. Bledsoe, Walter Shafer and Archie Walker.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, SEPT. 8, 1955

The question has been raised in high military circles down in Washington—is the meat of the ground hog good eating and a fit food for the elect?

The answer is that ground hog meat is good to eat—strengthening both soul and body. It gave the Pilgrim forefathers, along with baked beans and roast turkey and apple pie with cod fish on the side, the physical and moral stamina to establish on the stony soil of New England a civilization which has been an inspiration to all forward, upward looking people; to build a commercial dominion to which we all pay tribute; to maintain a culture we all envy.

I declare in all earnestness it was not the bean nor the cod nor the turkey nor the pie nor the four-fold combination which worked wonders in the stony heart of the Puritan on his rock found acres. I declare it was and is the ground hog—under the more euphonest name of wood chuck—which greased the skids to make New England great.

Here in the Endless Mountains it was a diet of ground hog meat which gave our people endurance and courage and ambition to drive out the Indian, clear away the forest, fight in Freedom's Revolution, and send an endless stream of pioneers to subdue the West.

Taste for ground hog meat is natural—not acquired. Dress up the carcass; cut out a couple of kernels in behind each foreleg. Cook like any other good meat—boil, roast or bake. Put in plenty

Our Boys and Girls in Service

Army Private George Pritchard, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton M. Pritchard, of Dunmore, recently took part in battalion training tests held by the 25th Infantry Division on the island of Hawaii. He is a gunner in Tank Company of the division's 35th Regiment.

A-3c Robert Gerald Grimes, was accompanied by his mother, and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dilley, to Rainelle to the home of Miss Vonna Boyd. From there he was accompanied to Charleston, by Miss Boyd, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Boyd. This young Airman flew from Charleston to Parks A. F. B. California. He will then go to Korea. He is the son, of Mr. and Mrs. Ermon Grimes, of Huntersville. Miss Vonna Boyd will remain in Charleston, where she has enrolled in a business school.

Master Sergeant and Mr. Arthur Buzzard and children Jerry and Diane, of Fort Benning, Georgia, were home for twenty days to see their families. Mr. and Mrs. John P. Warner, of Catonsville, Maryland, and Lee Buzzard and family, at Stony Bottom. They also visited other relatives in Maryland and West Virginia. While the Buzzard's were home they attended the Pocahontas County Fair.

Albert E. Lanham, BTC, U. S. Navy Recruiter, announced today that James R. Rexrode, of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rexrode of Bartow, and Roy C. Cason of Gladys Ober, of Bartow, have enlisted in the U. S. Navy for a Minority term as Sea Recruits. They were sent to Navy Training Station, Parris Island, Maryland, for nine weeks of basic training and indoctrination.

the carcass; cut out a couple of kernels in behind each foreleg. Cook like any other good meat—boil, roast or bake. Put in plenty of garden vegetables for a tasty, satisfying stew.

A fine old lady of the Valley of the Elk (name on request) gave deserved rebuke to the grand daughter who came visiting back from levels of Indiana, on Poage Creek, to the mountains of her ancestors. The young lady from the finishing school exclaimed, "Grandma, you are not really going to cook a ground hog in the house?"

Grand dame replied that when she and grandpa went to house keeping some fifty years ago, the garden house was under a trumpet vine a full two hundred feet from the back door. They cooked their ground hog regularly in the house. Now, the third generation had their bath rooms in the house, but suggested that she cook their ground hogs down at the abandoned wash place by the forsaken spring house!

In literature you will find the ground hog under the name of wood chuck. The late John Burroughs was an American naturalist writer supreme. In his "Birch Browsings" is the following paragraph telling about a woods walk on Elder Creek, somewhere up in the New York Adirondacks:

"We now made good time, and before many minutes I again saw the mimic sky glance through the trees. As we approached the lake, a solitary wood chuck, the first wild animal we had seen since entering the woods, sat crouched upon the root of a tree a few feet from the water, apparently completely nonpulsed by the unexpected appearance of danger on the land side. All retreat was cut off, and he looked his fate in the face without flinching. I slaughtered him just as a savage would have done, and from the same motive—I wanted his carcass to eat."

tion.
A Navy Recruiting Office is now open in the Post Office in Elkins, and a Navy Recruiter will be at the Post Office in Marlinton on Tuesday of each week to accept applications for enlistment in the U. S. Navy.

FARM NEWS

Some additional money has been allotted to the carrying out of Soil Conservation practices in Pocahontas County, prior to December 31, 1955.

The Pocahontas County Committee has set up a two weeks sign up period, for farmers desiring to carry out an approved form practice as set forth in the State ASC Handbook.

Farmers must bring into the County ASC office soil samples from fields they want to treat with lime or fertilizers.

The two weeks sign up will commence immediately and close September 16. This will enable the Committee to approve and get out forms to the farmers in time to complete the practices.

Visit your County ASC office in the Bank of Marlinton Building.

Approximately 3,000 children enrolled in the Pocahontas County schools at the opening of the new term on Tuesday morning, according to announcement by Mack H. Brooks, County School Superintendent.

Of the 3,000 children enrolled, approximately 2,000 are transported between their homes and the schools by bus, some pupils traveling as much as 24 miles daily, while others travel only two miles.

Mr. Brooks called attention to a new traffic regulation concerning school buses which was passed by the State Legislature, on March 12, 1955, and contained in Article 12, Section 7, of the measure:

"The driver of a vehicle on any street or highway upon meeting or overtaking, from either direction, any school bus which has stopped on the highway for the purpose of receiving or discharging any school children, shall stop the vehicle before reaching such school bus and shall not proceed until such bus resumes motion, or until signaled by the driver or other authorized person or persons to proceed."

A shortage of teachers still exists in the Pocahontas County schools, and as a result some classrooms are empty.

THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1958

DedicationBy Richard F. Currence
May 3, 1958

Dedicatory services are not unusual throughout this land of ours, wherein soldiers collectively are honored for their several sacrifices; or for individual soldiers for heroism and courageous actions; or for captains of industry or financial wizards for their benevolent contributions to the public welfare; or for statesmen for their efforts and accomplishments in good government.

We, however, are gathered here for the rather unique purpose of honoring a man, who performed no thrilling acts of heroism but who was ever courageous in his championing the rights of all people. We are here to honor a man who did not donate or bequeath to the public art treasures or buildings but who did give to all an example of doing justice and loving mercy and walking humbly with God. We are here to honor a man who never held high public office but who, without seeming effort by word and deed, constantly proclaimed the rightness of decency, morality and individual interest in public affairs, which is the basis of all good government.

We are here to honor a churchman, editor and publisher of "The Pocahontas Times", a naturalist, conservationist, even a Doctor of Philosophy, and our fellow citizen.

We here now, on behalf of "Pocahontas County Beautiful", dedicate these Dogwood trees to Calvin W. Price whose name has been given to ten thousand acres of land and to the millions of trees and shrubs located on them. If he were here he would as greatly appreciate this gesture on your part as he did that great honor the State of West Virginia conferred on him by naming a State Forest in his name. For honors such as these are gauged in spirit and not in size or amount.

In years to come, and when in full bloom, strangers may exclaim in admiration of the beauty of these trees. Each of you who knew Cal Price will heartily agree, but will be quick to add, that they are no more beautiful than the whole life of the man to whom they are dedicated.

Colored Trout?

Watch out for trout with bright colored markings on their bottom side, if you fish in Cranberry River this spring. The Conservation Commission is trying a new scheme of marking trout by injecting colored liquid rubber under the skin. The fish in about a fifteen mile portion of Cranberry will be marked with a different color for different sections, and information will be gathered concerning their movement, length of life, etc. So report on your fish with the bright colors.

CLINT SPURR, STATESMAN
(from Charleston Gazette)

It was with regret that we read her day of the retirement of Spurr as president of Monongahela Power Company. He possessed a faith in West Virginia that has been too lacking in many fields of business during the last two decades. He rose to the presidency of Monongahela Power Co., a utility spread into many northwestern counties, just before the 1929 market crash made much of the region a virtual pauper.

Spurred, as he has said on occasions in the intervening years, that his company could be sustained only if the economy in which it served was healthy.

He was a prime mover in the creation of the Upper Monongahela Valley Assn., an agency devoted to the promotion of industrial and agricultural development in the area served by Monongahela Power.

In years since the association formed many factories moved into the Monongahela river basin. Agricultural production also has been tremendous. The tollary of this two pronged plan, cultural advancements have been made.

Of course, it isn't totally possible for these widespread developments, but his vibrant and proclivity for looking spurred others to action.

Clint Spurr as he goes to retirement and note that he has done could set a course for others to follow throughout West Virginia and the Monongahela Valley.

He Carried Lincoln

(Morgantown News)

An epitaph will be raised by the grandson of a former Morgantown man who helped carry the wounded Abraham Lincoln from Ford's Theatre.

William S. Titus, formerly of Morgantown and now of Baltimore, said he had made arrangements for an epitaph in the memory of William McPeck.

The inscription to be cut by the Lang Monument Company here will read:

"William McPeck, Born August 13, 1838—Died October 17, 1921. His Spirit Gone To The Unknown Land Where He Helped Usher That Of The Martyred Hero, Lincoln."

McPeck was a soldier in the Union Army during the Civil War.

He was with the Third West Virginia Infantry Regiment on that fatal night of April 14, 1865 when President Lincoln was shot. McPeck was on duty outside Ford's Theatre when John Wilkes Booth fired the shot that fatally wounded Lincoln as he sat in a box at the theatre.

Hearing the shot, McPeck rushed inside the theatre and was among those who helped carry the dying President out of the theatre to a house across the street.

Titus discovered information on his grandfather's presence at the historic shooting from papers in his mother's home in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

McPeck is buried at Herring some four miles from Morgantown. The epitaph will be placed on stone at the grave site.

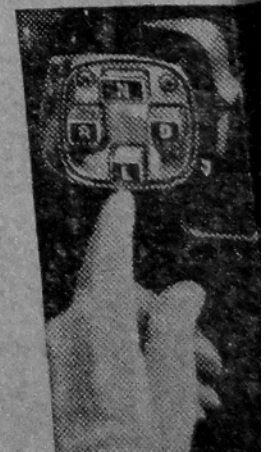

Soldier William McPeck is the great grandfather of Mrs. Edward Stemple, of Marlinton. Her grandmother, Leticia McPeck-Martin, still lives at the old McPeck homestead on Beech Run Hill, in Preston County.

Fort Campbell, Kentucky—Private First Class Quentin Underwood son of Mr. and Mrs. Kennie Underwood, of Huntersville, West Virginia, has recently taken a 15 days leave to visit his parents, and to help his father complete their new home.

Private First Class Underwood attended Marlinton High School where he was studying in agriculture and also played football for the school.

Private First Class Underwood completed the rugged Airborne School here at Fort Campbell, Kentucky, in July of 1955, and has (13) thirteen jumps from an aircraft in flight, and is presently assigned to Company "D" of the famed 503rd Airborne Infantry Regiment as a cook and has been doing an outstanding job.

Halloween Celebration

Plans are now complete for another big Halloween Celebration to be held next Monday night, October 30. This program will be highlighted by a parade featuring the Marlinton High School Band and the Marlinton Volunteer Company. All costumed persons are also invited to take part in the parade. Immediately following the parade a program of food and entertainment will be held on the street beside the bank of Marlinton. Prizes have been donated by the Keepers of Marlinton which will be awarded to winners of such contests as: cracker eating, pie eating, banana eating, balloon popping. There will be contests for different age groups. Prizes will also be given to the best costumed person, the Best Married Couple and the Best Single person under 8 years. A special attraction for the evening will be the greasy pole where a cash prize will be attached to the top of the pole and the contestants must climb on to reach the top of the pole without the aid of a ladder to win the prize. Everyone is invited to attend this celebration which is sponsored by the Marlinton Club. Don't forget to be there on October 31st.

Mrs. J. Z. Johnson gave a book review on "Why Johnny Can't Read" at a meeting of the Marlinton PTA which was held at the Graded School lunch room on Friday, October 21st.

Mrs. Mack Brooks presented a report on the recent meeting of the West Virginia PTA Congress which was held at Clarksburg.

Mrs. Alonzo Dean, chairman of the PTA membership drive, which began October 4th and will continue to November 4th, announced that there are now 208 members in the local PTA. The room in the graded school having the most parent memberships will receive a treat and the student obtaining the most members will be awarded a prize, Mrs. Dean said.

Mrs. Walter Jett, PTA president, conducted a business meeting at which time it was voted to sponsor an Auction Sale on the graded school playground at 1:00 p. m., on Saturday, November 5.

Since "Happy Minds" is the theme being used by the State PTA for 1955-56, it was felt that an auction sale would be appropriate as the members stated that it was so much fun in getting rid of items no longer wanted and bidding on other articles which are needed.

Refreshments were served to 65 persons at the close of the meeting.

In Memoriam

In memory of our grandfather, Harmon I. Shinaberry, who departed this life, October 4, 1955:

From this life he has departed
And a new life he has gained,
To this life of sin and sadness
We would not recall him again.

Our dear one, he has left us,
For a happy home Above,
There to live a life eternal
Where all is peace, joy and love.

Here our hearts may be heavy,
As each day we miss him more,
But some day we will go to meet him,

On that bright celestial shore.

THURSDAY, OCT. 27, 1955

PROSPERITY NOTES

New York—With incomes of Pocahontas County residents running at a high level, the questions arise: How much of this money are they spending? Where are they spending it and for what?

Answers to the questions are contained in copyrighted study made by Sales Management of the spending habits of people locally and in other parts of the country. Put under the spotlight are each community's purchases of food, autos, general merchandise and the like.

In Pocahontas County most of the earnings in 1954 went into the cash registers of the local retail stores. These expenditures produced retail business in the amount of $5,001,000 for the year, an increase over the $4,079,000 recorded in 1953.

The chief buying emphasis was on food, which took 24 cents of each dollar spent in the local stores.

The volume of such purchases indicates a trend toward more luxurious living. Pocahontas County's food bill, in meat markets, grocery stores, delicatessens and such, came to $1,204,000 in the year, an increase over the $931,000 of the prior year. Divided equally among the local families, this amounted to $415 per family.

The local ability to indulge in more and better food is but one facet of an overall improvement in the standard of living.

Luxury buying in Pocahontas County was indicated also in outlets selling new and used cars, farm machinery and other automotive equipment. Such sales ran to $908,000, compared with $778,000 the previous year, accounting for another 18 cents of the retail dollar.

Green Bank Homecoming

The Green Bank Golden Eagles will meet their traditional rivals, the Marlinton Copperheads, in their big homecoming game on Saturday, October 29th. A close game is to be expected, with the decision in the balance.

Homecoming activities, along with the drawing card of the game with Marlinton, are expected to draw the season's biggest crowd. Old grads have been notified by letter, and a large number have indicated they maybe expected to be on hand.

Halftime ceremonies will be highlighted by the crowning of the Homecoming King and Queen—Mary Ellen Nicely and Bob Brubaker. Both are members of the senior class. Each class, from senior to first grade, will supply two royal attendants. They are—

The McFerrins

In a recent issue the Huntington Advertiser publishes the picture of Mr. and Mrs. John Herma McFerrin and their daughters, Jane and Elizabeth. Mr. McFerrin is the son of A. H. McFerrin of Marlinton. Here is what Ruth Napier writes about the McFerrins:

The John H. McFerrin family moved to Huntington the latter part of January from Bay Village, near Cleveland when Mr. McFerrin was made plant manager of the National Carbon Company plant at Kenova. He was also associated with the company in Cleveland.

Mr. and Mrs. McFerrin have two daughters; Jane, nine years old is in the fourth grade at Gallaher School and Elizabeth is in the first grade. She will be seven years old next month.

Mrs. McFerrin has already gotten herself a Brownie Troop since moving to Huntington. Rather she is helping to organize a Brownie Troop at Gallaher. She was also active in Girl Scout work in Bay Village.

Other interests for McFerrins include chiefly working in Little Theatre. Mrs. McFerrin majored in dramatics and theatre at Alma College at St. Thomas, Ontario, Canada. Her home was originally in Hamilton, Ohio.

She says she is usually the one who works around the plays, while her husband has the main job—he is the chief baby sitter.

Mr. and Mrs. McFerrin also enjoy dancing, and being with their people.

Mr. McFerrin is a native of Marlinton, and attended Marshall College for two years so moving here wasn't really like going to an entirely strange place. After he was graduated from Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and Mrs. McFerrin celebrated their 12th anniversary last November.

They haven't really been able to Rev. John R. Gussner, of the Baptist Churches, at Clendenmen. He and Mr. Johnson were class mates, 1932, at Asbury College, in Kentucky.

Senior Play

The Hillsboro High School Senior Class will present a three act play "The Professor Proposes" by Evelyn Northrop on April 15, 1955, in the Hillsboro Grade School Auditorium at 8 p. m. The price of admission will be adults 50 cents and students 35 cents.

The characters are: Emily Gilmore, Linda Clutter; a student in college. Geraldine Flint, Nancy May; a mischevious junioa. Bert Cornell, James Coe; the football hero of the school. Miss Martha Crawford, Barbara Bruffey; a Dean and Matron of the school. Betty Todd, Carolyn Hill; and Belle Hadley, Mary Vaughan; who are inseparable. Bob Flint, Paul Dunn; Geraldine's freshman brother. Arthur Lewis Kenneth Rose; Geraldine's beau-at-the moment. Mildred, Charlotte Landis; the maid. John Curr McKenny, Tony Ruckman; the professor of History. Rose McKenny, Ruth Moore; a damsel in distress.

Emily, who is a student in college, never had any dates. Geraldine tried to help. She knew that men liked girls who are popular and so she told Bert that Emily was dating an out-of-town man and produced a photograph of him. Bert took a good look at Emily and began to date him. Troubles begins when the original of the photograph appears as the newest member of the faculty. From then on it's a real riot of laughs and incidents. Involved in the unexpected turn of events are a number of other college students, the professor, the dignified Dean of Women a pretty bride, and a blundering maid. When the play reaches its climax, the frivolous Geraldine has learned a needed lesson and solemnly resolves to let the Cupid run his business unaided in the future.

COAL SHIPMENT

For a couple of generations coal by the car load has come daily into our town of Marlinton, and it still does. However, the tide turned the other way a tiny mite the other day, when B. D.

club it to death.

One day last week, a farmer in the Levels found the remains of a fox in his feed lot. It had been trampled to death by the cattle in the feed lot.

Mrs. Elizabeth Peck is spending the Easter vacation at her home in Morgantown.

Mrs. George Carlisle, of Hillsboro, received a broken wrist in a fall at her home last Wednesday.

The Highland Recorder reports that two cows and two foxes have been proven by State Health Department to have died from rabies. One cow, two sheep and a fox have died with symptoms of rabies.

That Hospital Levy

I was a bit surprised to hear a taxpayer say that the tax levy voted for the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital amounted to $30 on the thousand dollars assessed valuation. Further, he was backing up this statement by quoting from the Pocahontas Times. The truth is the people voted a levy of three cents on the one hundred dollars assessed valuation, or thirty cents on the the one thousand dollars valuation placed on your property by the assessor.

This hitch occurred because the amount of assessed valuation, the basis for taxation, had been confused with the amount of the tax ticket—the sum charged on assessed valuation.

Two taxpayers figured up the amount they would be required to pay by reason of the hospital levy. One pays $200 in round numbers. His hospital tax will amount to $6 a year. The other pays $350, and his hospital tax is a little more than $9 a year.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 24, 1959

Above is a picture of the huge 50,000 gallon water tank on its trip from Clover Lick to the new Buckskin Council Scout Camp at Dilley's Mill. Fred Burns moved the big tank, which was donated by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company. Men and cranes from the bridge work at Marlinton and the Observatory at Green Bank helped with getting the tank down and loaded. At Clover Lick almost any bet could have been had that it could not be moved, but moved it was. They had to ford the river and they knocked down trees all along the route. The narrowest "squeak" came at a tight turn on Laurel Run. The tank is now at the top of a ridge at the Camp being prepared to store water from a 175-foot well that has been drilled.

Men and equipment are working like proverbial ants scraping, hauling, filling, packing the earth in the big fill for the dam at the Camp. Scheduled to be finished in two weeks from last Friday, when I visited the site, 30,000 cubic yards of dirt had been moved, leaving less than 15,000 to move. Thirty-five feet high, 290 feet long, it will form a seven-teen-acre lake. A chapel, given as a memorial by Mrs. Abney, of Charleston, and to cost $15,000, will be built on a 4-acre rise at the upper end of the lake. Other

Other buildings facing the lake will be built with much glass at the front to take advantage of the view of the lake. The exteriors of the buildings will be wood with some stone to add to their attractiveness. Bids will be let next month for the dining hall (35 x 70), health lodge (a memorial by the Kanawha Medical Society) and the chapel. The trading post, program centers and storage buildings will be built by the crew of workmen now working under the direction of Denzil Skinner, Scout Field Executive, who has been there all summer. They are preparing fourteen camp sites—laying water and sewer lines, building fireplaces, etc.—which will take care of the 2000 campers for next summer, 250 a week for 8 weeks. New camp sites will be added later to raise the capacity to 800 a week. This compares with a total of 1068 campers at Camp McClintic in Greenbrier County this past summer, but they feel that they have not been able to stress camping as they

This compares with a total of 1068 campers at Camp McClintic in Greenbrier County this past summer, but they feel that they have not been able to stress camping as they should because they did not have facilities to take care of more. Another sidelight was that the boys will camp in two-boy tents instead of larger group tents, as at McClintic.

A $5,000 gateway will be built—also a memorial, for Donald Shonk—about 200 yards below the present entrance road. The administration building will be on the ridge overlooking the entrance but it will not be built for a while yet. Below it will be a memorial flagpole for Colonel Walter Phillips. Mr. Skinner said pledges had been made for more than the $250,000 goal set in the initial drive.

Thus is coming into being one of the finest Scout Camps in the United States.

Greenbrier District Conservation Winners

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Callison, who operate a dairy farm in the Beard Community, have been named the district winner of the conservation award. In all there are 14 conservation districts in the state. Each year a winner is named from each district and a state winner is selected from these 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Callison operate an 80 acre dairy farm. Their Holstein herd consists of 19 cows now in production, six heifers which will come into production this fall and six heifers calves which are being kept for herd replacement. In 1958 they had a herd average of 11,600 lbs of milk.

In addition to the dairy herd, a flock of 30 breeding ewes produced 40 lambs, fourteen yearling ewes kept from the 1958 crop will be added to the flock this year.

Enough hay and silage is raised on the farm to take care of the dairy herd and ewe flock; in addition to this grain to meet the needs of the sheep and dairy heifers is produced.

Three Holstein animals which are carried as a 4-H project by their son, Joel, were exhibited at the Pocahontas County Youth Fair and the West Virginia State Fair.

Resolutions of Respect

Mrs. Grace Clark Price

We, the Marlinton Woman's Club, record with deep sorrow the passing of Mrs. Grace Clark Price, age eighty-nine years. In the death of Mrs. Price the Club has lost a valuable and beloved member.

Mrs. Price was a charter member and past president of the Woman's Club, who continued an honorary member as long as she lived.

She possessed a very unusual personality. She appreciated the rare qualities in others and had yet charity for all. Her council constantly sought, and her gracious manner drew about her many friends. Her presence added dignity to any occasion.

While our hearts are sad, we bow in submission to the will of the Father who saw fit to take her to Himself.
His influence lives on and all who knew her will treasure the memory of a beautiful life.

"The seeds of kindness she has sown
Will blossom in many hearts

The deeds of love that she has done
Were of herself a part.

That other hearts and other lives may feel

As years go by

The influence of her example and life loves standard high."

In Memoriam

MACE—In memory of my Brother,
Amos Ray, who passed away one year ago, July 10, 1957—

It is not the tears at the moment shed,
That tell of a heart that is torn,
But the lonely tears of the after years
And remembrances silently borne.
His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall.

He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
The years of his life were numbered,
When the messenger whispered low,
"The Master has come and called for thee"

He answered, "I'm ready to go."
Time speeds on, one year has passed,
Since the messenger said,

"Come to my Heavenly garden,
And see, in perfect bloom,

The flower you loved so dearly,
And thought I plucked too soon.

Then you will know my reason,
Though you know it not today,
Why in his promising manhood,
I took your Brother away."

What would I give to clasp his hand,
His happy face to see,

To hear his voice, and see him smile,
That meant so much to me;

God knew all about those who love him,
How bitter the trial must be,
And right through it all, God is loving,
And knows so much better than we.

Writes Book

A former pastor of the Oak Grove Presbyterian Church and known to many in the County, the Rev. John K. Fleming has written and had published a small book, "Samuel Young."

An influential patriot of the Revolutionary period, Samuel Young was a leading church man of Rowan County, North Carolina. Mr. Fleming is a sixth generation descendent of Young.

He tells the story of the Scotch-Irish migration to America in the early seventeen hundreds that moved down through the Valley of Virginia and into the Carolinas, of which migration Samuel Young was a part. He became a large land owner and prosperous planter. A learned man he possessed a good library, and was prominent in the cause for Independence.

A Scotch-Irish Presbyterian he helped establish the Thytira and Third Creek Churches.

The books may be purchased from Rev. Fleming at Greenville, West Virginia, or James T. Graham, Cleveland, North Carolina.

Rev. C. M. Fultz

Rev. Charles Madison Monroe Fultz was born in Rockingham County, Virginia, on February 11, 1868. He died in Marlinton on Feb. 15, 1949. On Sunday afternoon his body was laid to rest in the Morgan church cemetery, near Renick. The services at Marlinton and at White Oak were by his pastor, Rev. E. N. Carlson, assisted by Rev. Roger P. Melton, Rev. J. R. Fitzwater and Rev. Clyde Hensley, District Superintendent.

Mr. Fultz is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nannie Curry Fultz, and their two daughters, Minnie and Lelia. His first wife was Mrs. Minnie Deyer Fultz, who preceded him nearly fifty years in death. To this union was born one son, Clifton.

The deceased was a son of the late Archibald and Mary Blaine Fultz. For fifty-eight years he had been a minister of the Methodist church. He was an evangelist; a faithful pastor and a great builder of churches—no less than 29 structures stand to his credit in the conferences of Virginia, West Virginia, Illinois and Northern Wisconsin.

Mr. Carlson spoke of Mr. Fultz as "a Christian statesman of the Kingdom of God, to whom death was just going home."

MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, FEBRUARY 24, 1949

Red Cross Report

The Pocahontas Chapter of the American Red Cross gave aid to 310 families last year. This assistance or services rendered to these families consisted of the following: Disaster relief to three families suffering from loss due to fire and flood; financial assistance to needy veterans' families; aid to veterans in filing claims and prosecuting these claims for disability compensation or pension until either allowed or denied by the Veterans Administration; and assistance to servicemen and their families by handling communications, furlough investigations, and aiding in the filing of applications for dependency allotments.

Classes held in swimming and life saving prepared youngsters and grown-ups to render invaluable service in life saving and water safety; the following certificates were issued to those who successfully completed the courses: Swimmer (beginner)-24, Swimmer (intermediate)-29, Swimmer-18, Swimmer (advanced)-1; Junior Life Saving and Water Safety-19; Senior Life Saving-5.

Mrs. Mary Kincaid, Chairman of Red Cross Production, announces that her department made the following garments:

21 army sweaters, 14 army mufflers, 4 navy sweaters, 1 long sleeve sweater, afghan and beanies, lap robes for hospitals (chair patients), 168 children's dresses, 12 children's slips, 2 helmets, 8 shirts (men's) and 33 night shirts for men. Total 271. These articles were made by the women of Pocahontas County, American Red Cross. The Co-Chairmen are: Mrs. Betty Parg, Frank; Mrs. Sophia Pritchard, Dunmore; Mrs. Snyder, Bartow; and Miss Angie Wade, Marlinton.

Robert Hook, Fund Chairman, reports that his volunteer organization has been completed and fund supplies have been delivered to the workers. The fund will begin this week with solicitation of business places advance contributions and the house canvass will begin March 1st. The complete list

Beavers

At a guess around 200 head of beavers were trapped in the recent open season. I heard of a 62 pound beaver being taken at the head of Greenbrier River. I saw a 45 pound one which Howard Mullins caught on Cranberry. It was the hope of the Conservation Commission to reduce the number of beavers in Pocahontas County by at least half. If ten percent were caught, I would be surprised. It can be said that much was learned and the plans and specifications will be different another year.

They tell a tale on a friend of mine, that he bought an ounce of perfume guaranteed to bring a beaver from his hair. The cost was $3. The directions said to spread the scent at the hole and then stand by with a club. He did, but the beaver did not. They say the perfume has a marked smell of sweet annis.

Another friend of mine came home with a little beaver about the size of a pussy cat. His two boys came in with a couple of forty pounders. The old man was puffed just a little with the inquiry if the mother beaver had put up much of a fight in defense of her little one.

Another friend has a varied assortment of beaver toes, feet and part of a tail. They do say a pest of a friend of my friend had caught a beaver and then put the tail in the other man's trap—just in the way of encouragement.

At Marlinton, Brown McComb got four big beavers on Greenbrier River below Stillwell. Austin Duncan got one from the same colony.

Moody Moore caught himself a forty pound beaver in Browns Creek.

I was told a State trapper, who had live trapped about 150 beaver the past few years, failed to get a single hide this season.

On next Tuesday, March 1, beginning at 10 a. m., the skins of the beaver kill in Pocahontas County will be sealed according to law, at the County Court House. On the next day skins will be sealed at the Ranger Sta-

Mother, you have gone and left us
In this world of strife and woe,
How our hearts did sadden
When we knew you had to go.

What a faithful, loving mother,
For to pray as death drew near
For her sons and daughters,
Everyone to her most dear.

Mother, dear, oh how we miss you
But 'tis God who called you home
And some day we hope to join you
Over there no more to roam.

As we leaf your well worn Bible,
See the promises you marked
We will try to heed them mother
With our tired, saddened hearts.

Some day, oh mother dearest,
We will come and take your hand
And there in sweet remembrance
We will live and understand.

Soon after the passing of Ed-

native sons was on his way home from Seminary, and alighting from the train late in May, Henry W. McLaughlin met in Ron-ceverte, Wm. H. Cackley formerly of Dunmore, who informed him of Mr. Alexander's death.
He was immediately sent by the Presbytery to the Green Bank area. The Liberty meeting got under way the first half of September, and Mr. McLaughlin was in the midst of it doing his part.
People came for miles around to attend the meetings; regardless of denominational preference. The preaching was good. It was scriptural and appealed to the con-sciences of men. The people were exhorted to turn from sin, to repent, and find salvation through faith in Jesus Christ. This writ-ter was only sixteen then, and perhaps I was not yet a big sinner. The preacher was somewhat dramatic in presenting the truth.

perhaps I was not yet a sinner. The preacher was somewhat dramatic in presenting the truth. One night he opened up on the Ten Commandments. He represented each commandment as a cannon mounted on Mt. Sinai, and each transgressor who broke that law was blasted by that particular gun. I sat trembling under the power of that sermon, and felt my great need of help from above. When the invitation was given some of my young friends went forward, and I hoped and prayed for strength to follow and soon went up myself. For two days I earnestly prayed and tried to exercise faith and then the change came. It was like the coming of day in my life. And God has greatly blest me these many years.

Some of the impressions of those days are fadeless. People generally were taking part in the meetings. One day a man of another communion pled with me to give my young heart to God.

What is a church for? To build the life of our young people?

Yes. To bring sinners to repent-

Lord throughout the earth? Yes.
To glorify God and exalt Christ

RESOLUTION

Resolutions Passed by Huntersville Lodge No. 65, A. F. & R. M.

On the Death of Hevener Dilley

At a regular communication of Huntersville Lodge No. 65 of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, held in their hall at Huntersville, West Virginia, February 11, 1949, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, it pleased an All Wise Providence to remove from the scenes of his earthly labors, on the 26th day of December, 1948 at the age of 65 years, our friend and brother, Hevener Dilley, therefore be it RESOLVED:

FIRST, that his immediate family in the death of Brother Hevener Dilley have lost an affectionate protector, who, as a husband, was true and indulgent, and as a father, was kind and considerate.

SECOND, that the members of Huntersville Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons extend their heartfelt sympathy to his family in their bereavement, and pray that the sustaining grace of God may constantly keep them, and His providence may sustain them wherever dispersed.

THIRD, that the community, in his death, has lost the noblest work of God's Creation — a christian man, honest, reasonable, and just; a neighbor, generous accommodating, and kind, who acted upon the square and did unto his neighbors as he would wish them to do unto him; and a citizen, quiet and peaceful, true to his government, and loyal to his country.

FOURTH, that the Lodge, in his death, has lost a faithful and efficient member, one who lived the tenets of our order, and by whom the lambskin or white leathern apron—"an emblem of innocence and the badge of a free and accepted mason"—was worthily worn; and while we miss the presence and example of our beloved brother, and sorrow because we see his face no more in the flesh, yet we bow in humble submission to the will of the Supreme Architect of the Universe in removing our beloved brother from labor in this earthly building to that spiritual building, "That house not made with hands eternal in the heavens."

FIFTH, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, one to each county paper for publication, and one to be entered upon the records of the Lodge.

Visitors in Marlinton can now find the correct time of day by raising their eyes to the chime clock on the west wall of the bank building. The clock is a fine example of the art of clock-making and is a valuable addition to the city's landmarks. It is a chime clock, and if they have been in the city before, they will remember the sound of the bells. The clock is a fine example of the art of clock-making and is a valuable addition to the city's landmarks.

First National Bank Erects Chime Clock

Visitors in Marlinton can now find out the correct time of day by raising an eye-lash, and if they have been up late the night before and are too sleepy to do that, a noise resembling the "bonnie blue bells" will penetrate their ears, telling them it is time to go to lunch, keep and engagement, or quitting time. The First National Bank, the only national bank in Pocahontas county, has made all this possible by erecting at their front door on Main Street a Chime Clock, bearing the bank's insignia. The clock is the only one of its kind in the county, and according to information no other bank can purchase one like it from the same company. The rules governing the sales of such time pieces are fixed that way, and the only thing that could cause this rule to become null and void would be a sudden, large increase in population. That not being likely, the First National has done something which can not be copied—even if anybody wanted to.

IN MEMORIAM

A tribute of love and devotion to the memory of our dear husband and father, Uriah W. Beverage, who departed this life one year ago July 26, 1927.

The angels came with silent tread,
And gathered 'round our father's bed;

Unto their shining home above,
They bore him in their arms of love.

Just asleep his soul immortal,
Dwelling now beyond life's woes,
Finds from care and pain and sorrow
Sweet and undisturbed repose.

But whether in our work or play,
A tinge of sadness lingers near,
To make us mindful every day,
Of an absent one we loved so dear.

Then when life and tears are past,
Our hearts will never know no sadness,
For we shall find our loved ones safe
at last,
Where all is life and joy and gladness.

There we'll meet on the streets of gold,

Where our Saviour we shall see,
His glory there we shall behold,
With our loved ones we shall be.

Till then O Lord help us to watch and wait,

And ever true and patient may we be Then your own dear hand will open wide the gate,

And our absent father again we'll see.

WVPA Gavel Found

The historic gavel and block provided for the State Newspaper Council some 20 years ago by Calvin Price, long time editor of the Pocahontas Times, Marlinton, have been found and returned to Col. F. P. Fisher, secretary-manager of the West Virginia Press Association, in January.

The gavel and block had been taken care of by the head waiter of the Daniel Boone Hotel, Charleston, where the West Virginia press had a convention some time ago.

The wood came from a log originally in Fort Donnally, erected in what is now Rader's Valley on Milligan Creek, six miles from the present site of Williamsburg, West Virginia, in 1768. The fort served as a refuge for settlers in the case of attack by Indians. The wood is over 500 years old.—West Virginia Fourth Estatemanager.
